What is HSK?

HSK (Chinese Proficiency Test) stands for China International Chinese Proficiency Test and is a standardised Chinese language test sponsored by the Hanban (National Office of the Leading Group for the International Promotion of Chinese) in China. It is designed to assess the Chinese language proficiency of non-native speakers of Chinese, including listening, reading and writing skills.

What is HSK work in this Systems?

As a professional Chinese language test, the HSK has a well-established system for assessing Chinese language learning. So we use this system as a teaching system to assess the level of each student and to make recommendations and teaching based on the test results.
